Plans To Run Nation As "Nonpartisan"

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Syngman Rhee took on one of the biggest jobs of his 85 years Sunday with a pledge of fundamental changes to purify South Korea's politics and government.

Rhee renounced the leadership of the ruling Liberal party, his now discredited political machine, and proposed to run the nation as a nonpartisan chief executive.

Under pressure at home and abroad to give his 23 million people more democracy, Rhee issued a 700-word statement promising changes to promote an honest, efficient and just administration.

There were indications that priority will go to reform of Rhee's much criticized national police force.

Rhee's statement was his first major attempt toward easing the crisis which has troubled South Korea since police shot nearly 1,000 youthful demonstrators to quell a violent antigovernment demonstration last Tuesday. The toll is officially listed at 128 persons dead and 777 wounded.

Rhee expressed sorrow over the "Bloody Tuesday" slaughter. But he side-stepped any direct personal responsibility for it or the unrest in his nation.

He ignored the widespread charge that his Liberal party rigged the March 15 presidential elections returning him to the fourth term and electing his No. 1 party deputy, Lee Ki-poong, to the vice-presidency. He gave no sign that he intended to become just a figurehead chief of state.

Without referring to reports that he would put a premier in charge, he set about creating a new Cabinet to replace the ministers who stepped down after the crisis erupted. He said he wanted to take the administration completely out of politics.

"Public servants then will be able to carry out their duties honestly and in complete fairness," he said. "Thus can we correct the mistakes of the past and assure Korea of efficient and corruptionless administration."

New Election Demanded

Outgoing Vice President John M. Chang, a leader of the opposition Democrats, was critical.

He said Rhee was for the first time acknowledging there had been imperfections in his administration. Chang declared the nation is waiting for "deeds, not words." He called again for a new election.

Vice President-elect Lee, target of the antigovernment demonstrations, announced he will retire eventually from public life.

A semi-invalid troubled by a nerve ailment, Lee is reported under pressure from Rhee to assume full responsibility for Liberal excesses. Now 63, he has been No. 2 man in the party which Rhee founded in 1951. The Liberals hold 152 of the 233 Assembly seats. Under normal procedure, Lee would become vice president Aug. 15.

All Is Tranquil As Laos Votes

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Laotians voted at troop-guarded Buddhist pagodas Sunday for a new National Assembly to deal with the continuing threat of pro-Communist rebels.

First returns were expected Monday.

Although the army had expected violence, all was tranquil in this sleepy capital and surrounding villages. And there was no word of incidents in the more remote areas of the little southeast Asian kingdom.

There were no Americans in sight throughout the day. U. S. personnel—embassy workers and those who administer the big American aid program—were ordered to stay away from the polling places and make no trips out of town.

The order was aimed at avoiding Communist charges of U. S. interference in the elections and as a safety measure.

Five Killed When Plane Falls On Car

3 Injured In Crash On Busy U.S. Rt. 40 Near Columbus, O.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Five persons were killed Sunday when a small single-engine airplane plunged out of the sky onto a car traveling on U.S. Highway 40. Both the plane and car exploded into flames.

The crash occurred about 17 miles east of downtown Columbus and just east of suburban Reynoldsburg.

Three others, passengers in the car, were injured.

The dead included the two occupants in the plane, Delbert Charles Stiles, 23, and his wife, Monalee, 22, of Columbus. Stiles apparently was the pilot.

Also killed were Rita Cecile Lyle, 26; Jim Vingle, 14, and Julia Jacques, 58, all of Columbus.

Reported in fair condition at St. Anthony's Hospital here were Dorothy Vingle, 49, mother of Jim, and another of her sons, John, 22, and Linda Armentrout, 14, all of Columbus. Linda was a niece of Mrs. Vingle.

Mrs. Lyle was Mrs. Vingle's daughter and Mrs. Jacques was Mrs. Vingle's sister.

The plane, co-owned by Stiles, had taken off from Buckeye Lake Airport about 15 minutes before the crash at 2 p.m. Stiles and his wife had gone to Buckeye Lake to visit friends but, unable to find them, headed back to Columbus.

The plane was flying low over the home of Bill Colbert when it circled and doubled back in the direction from which it came.

"It looked like it was having trouble bucking the wind," Colbert, 26, said. "It looked like the wind was blowing it sideways. I thought it was going to hit the house."

"Instead, it clipped a power line and fell straight down onto the back of the car."

"There was an explosion and then both the plane and car went up in flames."

"When I got there, a woman from the car was dragging out three others. I heard her say, 'I don't care if they are dead. I don't want them to get burned.'"

The woman apparently was Mrs. Vingle. She asked someone to phone for a priest.

Floods Follow Heavy Rains

By The Associated Press

Swirling rivers, swept by torrents of rain, went on the rampage along the western Wisconsin-Upper Michigan border Sunday, driving 800 persons from an Indian village, closing highways and halting trains.

The Bad River, fed by 48 hours of steady rain, flooded the village of Odanah, Wis., and Gov. Gaylord Nelson ordered National Guard and civil defense workers to aid in the evacuation there.

Portions of Ashland, Bayfield and Iron counties in the north-west part of Wisconsin also were declared disaster areas.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan ordered out the Ironwood, Mich., unit of the National Guard to evacuate residents as the flooding Montreal River drove 75 families from their homes in Ironwood and neighboring Hurley, Wis.

Michigan state police said Hurley, a community of 3,000, was virtually isolated by high waters which closed roads.

Acid Thrown On Sleeping Man

Merle Morgan (left), 45, lies in a Los Angeles hospital with severe facial burns caused by acid poured on him as he slept. He may lose the sight of one eye. Police arrested James N. Elliott (right), 54, father of a 15-year-old boy who was killed last year in a traffic accident while riding with Morgan. Elliott was booked for suspicion of assault with chemicals. Police said he denied any part in the acid attack but admitted having threatened Morgan.

African Regime Seen Crumbling By Opposition

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—The leader of the opposition United party said Sunday the white supremacist Nationalist government is beginning to crumble.

The leader, Sir de Villiers Graaf, made the statement in appealing to South Africans not to let the current racial crisis frighten them into emigrating.

"The day cannot be far distant," he said, "when the nation will force this government out, either at the polls or through an expression of new thinking in Parliament."

Graaf gave his views in a front-page interview in the Johannesburg Sunday Times.

Graaf said he saw hopes for a change in the strict segregation policies of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's National party. He referred to a speech by Lands Minister Paul Sauer calling for a "new deal" for South Africa's Negro majority to bring racial peace.

The Times said, however, that Sauer's new deal views appeared to find support among the rank and file in the party but were still strongly opposed by a larger group in the powerful party caucus.

The last word still rests with Verwoerd who is recovering from two head wounds inflicted by a white assassin two weeks ago.

Verwoerd received Sauer for a one-hour visit in his hospital room Saturday. Sauer insisted neither his new deal speech, nor any other political subjects were discussed.

Events last week indicated no relaxation of the government's racial policies. Police staged most daily raids on Negro settlements, arresting nearly 2,000 suspected troublemakers. At the same time white courts ground out sentences of fines and jail terms for scores of Negroes arrested on such charges as burning pass books required of non-whites.

Four Fliers' Remains Sought In Desert

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—A U. S. Army team flew to Libya Sunday to search the desert for the remains of four crewmen still missing in the World War II crash of the American bomber "Lady Be Good."

The team plans a 20-day search of a desert area of about 1,700 square miles—larger than the state of Rhode Island. Helicopters and land vehicles will concentrate on the "Sand Sea of Calanscio," 400 miles south of the Mediterranean coast.

The sand sea is about 85 miles north of the place where a British oil team found the bomber a year ago. It had crash-landed on its return from a bombing mission against Naples, Italy, in 1943 after the crew bailed out.

The bones of five of the crewmen were found last February by another oil team.

Lake Yields Body Of Missing Judge

CHICAGO (AP) — The body of federal Judge W. Lynn Parkinson, whose disappearance last fall touched off a massive search, was recovered Sunday from Lake Michigan.

Police said they found no apparent marks of violence on the body of the 57-year-old jurist, who sat on the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals up to the day he abruptly vanished.

The body, described by hospital technicians as badly decomposed, was pulled from the lake about 10 blocks from the Drake Hotel, where he last was seen Oct. 26 in an apparently sick and dazed condition.

Coroner Walter McCarron said his office will investigate the possibility the judge was robbed before his death. He said no money or jewelry was found on Judge Parkinson's body, although the jurist was known to carry one and sometimes two watches.

Positive identification of the body was made by matching a thumb-print with one on file with the government. Earlier, papers and cards bearing the judge's name were found in a wallet.

A passerby spotted the body on the north end of a filtration plant under construction off Navy Pier near Ohio Street on the North Side. Firemen recovered the body.

Judge Parkinson last was seen alive between 6:15 and 6:45 p.m., Monday, Oct. 26 when he was helped from a cab at the Drake and disappeared into the hotel.

The doorman said he appeared ill and dazed. The jurist's family later said Parkinson was suffering from low blood pressure and was not feeling well.

The family maintained the judge was a victim of amnesia when he disappeared on the way home from the appeals court building.

The discovery of the judge's glasses in the underpass and the finding of his umbrella beside a seawall on the Oak Street beach led police to believe he left the arcade and walked to the beach.

Demo Rivals' TV Debate Set May 4

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The much-talked-about television debate between Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) will come off May 4—six days before the West Virginia voters show their preference between the two as presidential timor.

The first face-to-face public meeting between the two hopefuls for the Democratic presidential nomination will be aired over a network of five television stations scattered over the state.

Before the date was set, both the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System offered to carry the debate nationally and the American Broadcasting Co. invited Humphrey and Kennedy to appear together on its "Open Hearing" program.

Final arrangements have not been worked out.

Solons Say Navy Has Too Many Armchair Admirals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators charged Sunday the Navy's active reserve is top-heavy with what they called armchair admirals, improperly trained for any war emergency.

"The Navy has not seen fit to give 15 of its 24 reserve admirals a single day of active duty for training since their promotion to flag rank," the Senate Preparedness subcommittee said in a report to Congress.

The subcommittee headed by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) said the Navy contended that active duty training for all active reserve admirals would be too costly, but the subcommittee rejected this argument.

"The substantial reliance placed by the nation on a well-trained, combat-ready reserve requires a firm and vigorous program — of training—for its senior officers," the report said. Modern warfare,

Aid Rushed To Iran City Hit By Quake

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — An earthquake struck the city of Lar in Southern Iran Sunday, reportedly causing heavy casualties and damage.

Official reports reaching Tehran did not indicate how many people were killed.

They said the quake rocked the city and its suburbs and that the area became dark because of dust.

The first reports were received by the Iranian Red Lion Society. They said many houses had collapsed.

The Red Lion Society, similar to the Red Cross, rushed a team equipped with medical supplies, food and clothing to the area from Shiraz.

Lar is about 550 miles south of Tehran. It is 170 miles south east of Shiraz.

The quake was said to have hit Lar shortly after 4 p.m.

Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi received the first official report about an hour later. He immediately ordered the government to make every possible effort to help victims and determine the exact number of casualties, a court spokesman said.

The spokesman said the Shah also ordered authorities to keep him informed of the severity of the quake throughout the night.

Castaways Kill Boat Skipper, Flee To Cuba

NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI) — Two shipwrecked pirates marooned on a desert island killed the captain of a fishing cruiser which came to their aid Sunday, commandeered the boat and left six persons stranded.

Heavily armed, the pirates in the speedy Muriel III, later outran a U. S. Coast Guard cutter into the sanctuary of Cuban waters.

Another Coast Guard amphibian picked up the six persons and the body of Captain Angus Boatwright from Elbow Cay, in the Bahamas, and flew them to Nassau for questioning by British authorities.

The Coast Guard said the Muriel was cruising off Elbow Cay, some 100 miles south of Miami, this morning when it sighted three persons stranded on the island.

The Muriel, carrying Boatwright, a mate and a fishing party of four, radioed the Coast Guard that the two men and a woman from the cabin cruiser White Star which had run aground and broken up.

The Coast Guard dispatched a cutter from Key West to pick up the three persons.

The Coast Guard said British and American consulate authorities in Nassau were investigating the case and Scotland Yard authorities questioned the six persons flown to Nassau in the Coast Guard plane.

The Muriel III's home port is Islamorada in the Florida Keys. United Press International contacted Mrs. Boatwright there. She confirmed that her husband was dead but said she did not have details.

The woman abandoned by the pirates said her name was "Table" but refused to give any more information. She would not say who the two men were, other than one of them was her husband. She was about 22 or 23 years old.

Two Leaders Set Strategy For Summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and French President Charles De Gaulle agreed Sunday on the strategy that will guide them in summit talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The two Western leaders jointly announced their agreement after a 13-hour conference in Eisenhower's tightly guarded Camp David (Md.) mountain retreat.

Spokesmen for the two men gave no details. But, Eisenhower and De Gaulle are reported to have reviewed prospects for disarmament, as well as Allied tactics in meeting Soviet demands on Berlin, Germany and East-West relations generally.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen a joint Eisenhower-De Gaulle communique summing up the results of their confidential talks would be issued Monday afternoon.

The tall French chief is due to leave Tuesday morning after a farewell conference with Eisenhower at the White House Monday and a formal address before a joint session of Congress.

Even before the second Eisenhower-De Gaulle meeting began Sunday top aides reported the two leaders already had agreed in their basic outlook for the long-awaited summit parley, due to start in Paris May 16.

Eisenhower and his guest reviewed the world's problems on the sun porch of Eisenhower's mountain lodge in the Catoctin Mountains of Maryland 85 miles from the capital. Only their interpreters were on hand.

Eisenhower relaxed with De Gaulle for nearly two hours beforehand, personally escorting him around the nearby Eisenhower farm at Gettysburg Pa., and guiding him on a tour of the Gettysburg battlefield.

When the two men flew back to the White House by helicopter, Hagerty and French spokesman Pierre Baraduc joined in briefing newsmen. They read a statement which they said Eisenhower and De Gaulle personally had dictated. It said:

"We have had useful and pleasant talks. We will meet tomorrow with our ministers."

"We have defined our own facts, clarified our own thinking as to how we shall proceed at the summit meeting. We are in agreement on that."

Meet With Ministers

"We shall continue these talks tomorrow when we meet with our ministers to inform them of our private conversations and to decide on the way of presenting our common ideas at the summit meeting."

"There will be a short communique issued at the conclusion of conversation prior to the departure of President De Gaulle."

Eisenhower gave De Gaulle a close-hand view of the President's farm.

De Gaulle, dressed in a gray business suit, tramped through pastures and barns with Eisenhower as his guide, inspecting Black Angus cattle and farm equipment in the bright spring sunshine.

Eisenhower, a cowboy-type hat on his head, gave De Gaulle a briefing on the famous Civil War battle of Gettysburg as he strolled around.

De Gaulle patted some of the calves on the head and remarked: "It's pleasant to be in the country. The smell is good here."

Three Steps To Increase U.S. Exports Suggested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three steps of $15,300,000,000, the United States was still selling more than it was buying in world markets — but by the narrowest margin since the Thirties.

The steps proposed were:

1. A major overhaul to strengthen and improve foreign trade promotion activities — including the establishment of an adequately staffed foreign commercial service directly responsible to the secretary of commerce.

2. A system of export credit insurance at least equal to those of competitors. The report said available evidence indicates that U.S. firms "consistently lose business in today's highly competitive foreign markets because they cannot match credit terms offered by West European and Japanese concerns whose export transactions are insured by government or government-backed institutions."

3. Establishment of a U.S. office of travel and tourism to promote more travel by foreigners to this country.

Between 1956 and 1959 the report said exports of West Germany increased 32.2 per cent; of France, 23.6 per cent, and of Japan, 33.2 per cent.

The report said that in 1959, with exports of $16,200,000,000 and im-

Demo Housing, Redevelopment Bills Menaced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two big appropriation bills high on the Democratic legislative program may be scuttled this week by a House coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats.

One is a 251-million-dollar area redevelopment bill labeled "political payola" by House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana.

The other is a billion-dollar housing measure which Halleck and other opponents describe as "inflationary and budget-busting."

In their present form, Halleck said in an interview, "neither one of them can become law because, if we can't beat them, we certainly can muster enough votes to sustain a veto."

The housing bill is slated for House consideration Wednesday and Thursday after having been held up by the Rules Committee, which finally cleared it. Its principal provision would authorize the Federal National Mortgage Assn. to purchase up to a billion dollars worth of government-backed home mortgages insured or guaranteed by the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration.

Republicans hope to pick up enough support from Southern Democrats to kill the bill outright.

The redevelopment measure was cleared last spring by the House Banking Committee. It is similar to a bill passed last year by the Senate but is much broader than legislation requested by President Eisenhower, who vetoed a comparable bill in 1958.

The pending bill would provide loans for both urban and rural depressed areas, grants in aid for public works and other benefits for areas suffering from prolonged unemployment.

Fires Of African Revolt Kindled Over Century Ago

By LYNN HEINZLING, JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The guns that killed 67 Africans and wounded 186 more at Sharpeville were loaded more than a century ago.

The awakening of the numerically superior Negroes in South Africa and their massive reaction to the doctrine of white supremacy have been inevitable since white first met black in the bush country.

In 1838 Piet Retief, one of the Boer leaders, walked into a trap set by Zulu chief Dingaan in Natal. Dingaan enticed Retief and 70 men into his kraal in the rolling hills to discuss cession of land rights. He murdered them all.

Dingaan then sent his Zulu warriors to the camps and killed 361 Boers and some 200 colored servants they had brought with them from the Cape.

Andries Pretorius, another Boer leader, gathered new forces and in the three-hour battle of Blood River killed 3,000 Zulus. Only three Boers were wounded. Dingaan's work and the battle of Blood River have become the centerpiece of Afrikaner nationalism.

While the Zulus and other tribes have been at peace with the white man for nearly a century the battle of Blood River still ships in East Indies trade. They are celebrated annually as Heroes Day.

Small bands of pioneers, disenchanted by the British occupation of the cape, headed into the wild and perilous country to the north and east.

They were descendants of a small group dropped at the Cape by the Dutch East India Co. to provide fresh food and water for ships in East Indies trade. They were mostly Dutch or descen-

Plane Crashes Near York; 2 Die

YORK, Pa. (AP) — A single-engine private plane crashed in the back yard of a farm house near here Sunday, killing two men and injuring two persons.

James Hickey, 37, of Lancaster, was dead on arrival at York hospital. The pilot, Linus F. Schwalter, about 42, of Camp Hill, died less than two hours later in the hospital.

Hickey's brother, Robert, 31, of Camp Hill, and Miss Marlene Crain, 24, of Harrisburg, were in satisfactory condition.

The plane, a Cessna 172, barely missed the home of Wayne Fitz before it plopped into the yard. Fitz, his wife, their three small children and Fitz's two brothers were asleep at the time.

Rival Trade Blocs' Cooperation Urged

HANNOVER, Germany (AP) — The Hannover Industrial Fair was opened Sunday by Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard with a plea for friendly cooperation between Western Europe's two rival trade blocs.

The powerful Federation of West German Industries seconded him by calling for immediate talks between the European Common Market and the European Free Trade Assn. to avoid a major trade rift.

Erhard said he was fully supporting the six-nation Common Market Treaty, especially because it was essential for French-German understanding. Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg are the other Common Market members.

Erhard opposes all measures which could result in a European split, including the recent plan to speed up the Common Market.

Verwoerd Assailant's Daughter Loses Job

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The daughter of David Pratt, the wealthy white farmer who wounded Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, has lost her job as a model, the Express said Sunday.

The pictures of Susan Pratt, attractive 22-year-old brunette, have appeared in many newspaper and film advertisements throughout South Africa. A representative of the advertising agency that employed her was quoted as saying: "We can't afford to let politics or anything like that creep into our advertising."

Development Of Atom Test Monitor Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sixteen top scientists Sunday proposed a high-priority research effort—possibly costing 100 million dollars—to develop an inspection system equal to the job of detecting small underground nuclear tests.

They said present knowledge on this problem is primitive.

The Democratic Advisory Council's scientific committee suggested a limited time moratorium on low-yield below-ground tests, pending development of an inspection system for monitoring them.

In a statement drafted at a day-long meeting here, the scientists, including several Nobel Prize winners, declared their strong belief that the United States should seek an agreement to ban all medium- and high-power weapons tests.

"It is generally agreed that an inspection system, employing existing detection technology and providing a number of on-site inspections, can be made adequate for monitoring a test ban on medium and high power weapons," the Democratic scientists said.

However, they said they deplore what they termed a "woefully inadequate" effort made so far to improve the technology of nuclear tests detection and identification, especially for underground blasts.

Thus, the scientists proposed that one of the nation's major laboratories be given a high priority to set up an experimental network of closely spaced seismic stations. This network would operate in an earthquake-prone region long enough to show whether it could detect explosions, locate them, and distinguish them from earth tremors.

Nobel Winner Dies

BERLIN (AP) — Professor Max von Laue, 80, German winner of the 1914 Nobel Prize for physics, died Sunday in a West Berlin hospital.

Von Laue succumbed to head injuries suffered in a car accident April 8. He won the Nobel Prize for his research into the structure of the atom.

Poll Indicates Nixon Will Trail In Indiana Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon's supporters Sunday released a poll indicating Nixon will run behind Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) in the May 3 Indiana presidential preference primaries. Each is running without opposition in his own party.

The same poll of Indiana voters, however, Nixon's aides said, showed the vice president ahead of Kennedy and some other Democratic rivals for the presidency as of now.

They attribute the primary election outlook to the poll's indications that—because of many party contests down the line—58 per cent of those turning out will vote Democratic, 42 per cent Republican.

The poll, based on a sampling of approximately 550 persons, was taken by Claude Robinson of Opinion Research Corp., Princeton, N.J.

Two Killed In Md. Traffic Accidents; Youth Drowns

Adlai Would Be Morse's Choice If He Can't Win

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents killed two persons in Maryland Saturday and a teen-age boy drowned as he swam near his home in 90-degree weather.

Donna A. Jeffrey, 6, was killed and two of her playmates injured in East Baltimore Saturday night when one of two cars involved in an accident swerved onto the sidewalk.

Donna's sister, Darlene, 5, was admitted to Johns Hopkins Hospital in critical condition. She suffered a fractured skull and one foot was severed in the accident. Shirley Rodriguez, 4, suffered broken arms and legs.

Police said a car driven by Edward C. Morlan, 25, hit the children after being involved in a collision at an intersection with another car driven by Miss Carole A. Hanadir, 21.

In an Anne Arundel County accident Saturday night, Mrs. Warner P. Winkler, 35, of Annapolis, was fatally injured when the car she was driving collided with a moving van on the Baltimore Beltway at Camp Meade Road. She was pinned in the wreckage for half an hour.

The driver of the van was Carlos Hall, 25, of Takoma Park. One of the first drowning victims of the season, as the state experienced its first minor heat wave, was Charles E. Stokes, 13, of near Dundalk in Baltimore County.

A witness told police the boy jumped from a boat in Bear Creek and swam toward a floating barrel. When he missed the barrel, the witness said, he became frantic and sank. A companion in the boat made it ashore and ran off.

Police dragged the area and found the body in about 15 feet of water. Artificial respiration was attempted, but was unsuccessful.

CAP Memorial Ceremony Held

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (AP) — The Maryland Wing of the Civil Air Patrol dedicated a flagpole overlooking the Susquehanna River Sunday to two CAP members who lost their lives searching for a missing plane.

Capt. Anthony J. Synodinos and 1st Lt. Edward G. Conrad, commander and chaplain, respectively, of the East Baltimore CAP Squadron, were killed April 6, 1954, when their plane crashed into the Susquehanna as they searched for a missing Air Force plane. It was Conrad's first plane flight.

Chaplain John Payne of the Maryland Wing spoke at the 2 p. m. ceremony attended by the wives and families of the two men. Gov. Tawes was represented by Odell M. Smith, assistant to the governor. J. Cecil Sale of the Havre de Grace Park Board represented the mayor and council.

CAP planes from Prince Georges County and Parkville squadrons dropped wreaths on the river where the plane went in. There was a flyover by jet planes of the 142nd Air National Guard Fighter-Interceptor Squadron of New Castle, Del.

The flagpole is in a concrete base which also bears a bronze memorial tablet. The throttle and control stick from the CAP plane were imbedded in the concrete base.

Youngster Struck, Injured By Tractor

SALISBURY (AP) — A 3-year-old boy, running from his home to get a promised ride on a farm tractor, was struck by the tractor Saturday and seriously injured.

Admitted to Peninsula General Hospital with chest injuries was Randy M. Patey of Willards, 14 miles east of here.

Police said the boy had been promised a ride on the tractor when Raymond Jones, a farmhand, had finished his work for the day. When he saw the tractor approaching, the boy dashed from the house and in front of the vehicle.

Young Brothers Perish In Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two brothers, aged 10 and 4, died Saturday in a fire that broke out on an enclosed front porch.

The body of the youngest victim, Joseph Chatman, was found on a studio couch. His brother Everett was lying on the floor nearby.

Firemen said the two youngsters apparently died of asphyxiation. A book of burned matches was found on the floor of the porch.

The boys were sons of Mrs. Josephine Chatman.

Mahalah King, 80, an occupant of another room in the house, was taken to General Hospital for treatment for smoke inhalation. Her condition was undetermined.

Woman To Woman Stevenson 'Nominated' By Students

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The death rate from uterine cancer in the United States has been "cut roughly in half in about a generation," the American Cancer Society reported Sunday.

Uterine cancer is the second most common cause of death among women from cancer and last year took about 15,000 lives. In commenting on the progress in the fight against this type of cancer, the ACS, in its 1959 annual report, said:

"There are about 175,000 women alive today who have been saved because of a growing awareness of the need for an annual checkup for possible uterine cancer."

The ACS also said that "the techniques and plans for virtually eliminating cervical cancer as a cause of death are at hand and that they must now be made operational at an accelerated rate."

Until recent years, the society reported, the decline in deaths from uterine cancer was traceable to two factors: the program of education for women which the society has conducted since 1936 and improvement in treatment.

The society added that women now have a "powerful new tool" against death from uterine cancer.

Three years ago the society launched its Uterine Cytology program based upon the development by Dr. George N. Papanicolaou, of Cornell University Medical College, of a method of distinguishing cancer cells from normal cells cast off in body fluids.

At that time, the Pap smear technique became operational. Surveys demonstrated that the cell examination was accurate, simple and effective. As a result of the field tests, the society pulled out all stops in its program aimed at making this life-saving procedure available to all adult women.

In 1957, the society estimates, three million women had the examination. This number climbed to almost six million in 1959.

"Such gains," the society said, "show that the examination is becoming an established health habit among American women as a routine part of a yearly medical checkup."

"At the existing level of attack, uterine cancer death rates can be expected to fall about three per cent a year."

Body Found In River That Of Pa. Student

WASHINGTON (AP) — A badly decomposed, headless body found in the Potomac River earlier this month was identified Saturday as that of Patrick J. Flaherty, a New Castle, Pa., youth who drowned here nearly two years ago.

Flaherty and another George Washington University student, George Thomas Grace, 18, of Huntington, N. Y., were dragged into the churning Potomac by deceptively quiet currents and swept over Great Falls in May 1958. Grace's body has not been recovered.

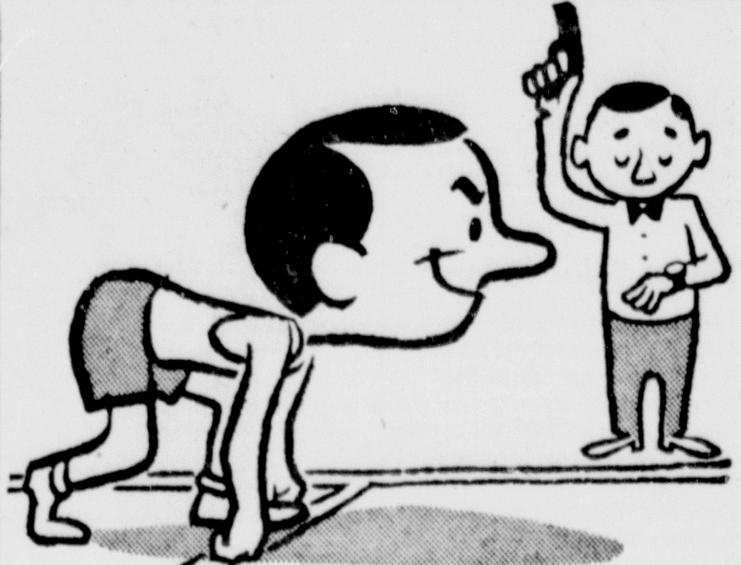

Police said Flaherty's body was identified by a broken and mended collarbone which matched X-ray photos obtained from a New Jersey hospital.

More Space Study Funds Expected

It seems probable the United States' space program will get the funds the administration asked for it after all. It's going to take a bit of maneuvering to do it, but that maneuvering seems about to take place.

The House Appropriations Committee has cut the proposed appropriation for the National Aeronautics and Space Agency by four per cent. The Science and Astronautics Committee is fighting for restoration of what has been cut, but predictions are the House will go along with the Appropriations Committee.

If so, the fight will go to the Senate. There forces are at work to make quite a battle of it. Sen. John C. Stennis of Mississippi advocates a five per cent increase in the space agency's funds for research and development. Chances are he will have his way, the bill will go to a House-Senate conference, and the space agency will end up with at least as much as it asked for in the first place.

Senator Stennis' point of view is that NASA needs the added funds for two reasons: To provide for reserve or "back-up" rockets in case an important experiment goes awry, and so that NASA can take advantage of any discoveries or advances that might develop in rockets or space technology.

If these funds are kept out of the budget, NASA will have to sit on its hands and wait for the next budget go-round before getting funds to either finish off an experiment already started or take advantage of new advances in the field. Or let some other important research go in order to shift funds for those purposes.

Taxpayers are increasingly demanding to know that money spent on space projects is well spent. NASA seems to be doing the most efficient job.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky
Hoover To A Young Lady

Former President Herbert Hoover receives a large mail from all sorts of people, some of them very young ladies and gentlemen in the fifth and sixth grades. They want him to tell them many things. One of them asked him: "Why is the study of Government important to all Americans?"

Mr. Hoover spends his time these days writing books. He has always been devoted to scholarship, he and the late Mrs. Hoover, early in their marriage, translating the first book on mining by Agricola from the Latin into English. Now he writes mostly history.

Equally significant are the numerous letters he writes. This one is to a very young lady in reply to her question:

"You ask: 'Why is the study of Government important to all Americans?'"

"There are dozens of reasons. I give you to start with:

"1. When you begin to earn a living the Government will take about 30% of your working hours by way of taxes. You might find it profitable to know what the Government does with your money."

"2. The Government, beginning at your first grade and continuing to the university, provides for your education. It might be worth knowing something about it."

"3. The Government provides you protection from harm, support in case of unemployment, care in case of illness and a pension in old age. It is well to know about these matters."

"If you do not do so, your life may be solely washing dishes or sewing on buttons at the minimum wage permitted by a law. This minimum wage does not include an automobile."

"And in the land in which you have the great fortune to live there have been great men and great women who have given great sacrifice, great courage and great heroism to create your government. It might be good to know about these men and women."

It is very difficult to teach a child what money is and how very important it can be if it is properly used.

One of the greatest values that money can buy is time — time to think, time to get an education, time to listen to music, time to read, to look at pictures, to travel. When the government takes close to a third of our time, it reduces the advantage of working fewer hours.

Perhaps President Hoover should have told this little girl what happens to money when there is an inflation and the value of money begins to disappear. He knows all about that. I am not thinking of the 1929 Depression but of his jobs of feeding millions of people during and after war years. Younger generations have forgotten all about that; some never even heard about it. Nevertheless, this was one of the greatest services the United States ever performed and it was all done in a very remarkable way.

Khrushchev recently indicated that he knew nothing about it which is hardly possible, because he comes from the Ukraine where the American Relief Administration fed so many people. The possibility is that Khrushchev and his family were fed by the A.R.A. He was not a big shot then and millions of people were starving in the Ukraine and in the Russian territory thereafter.

When money cannot buy food, money is of no use. That is something that needs to be learned. Money is only good when you can get goods or services for it. The less you can get for your money, the less value the money has. That is something that is very important to know, because just asking for and receiving more money does not solve anyone's problem unless the money is good.

I found former President Hoover's second answer rather surprising. No government paid for Herbert Hoover's university education. He worked his way through college. He never had time to loaf and he had no money to get into trouble.

These days, the kids say that it is hard to get odd jobs to do. It probably is. The unions limit employment and many states and municipalities have laws against kids working. We older folks recall that it was possible to get an after-school job at any age. Herbert Hoover was poor; he was an orphan, he lived with relatives; he worked his way through college; became a mining engineer; made a fortune and became President of the United States. In those days, we believed anybody could do that.

'See-Clothes Make The New Man'

Kennedy's Stirring Speech Rare Spectacle

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — A rare spectacle in American politics occurred here Thursday as a United States Senator bluntly and emphatically told the annual convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors that he would not allow the Roman Catholic Church to influence him if he were elected President of the United States.

Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Democrat, made an impressive and stirring plea for the squelching of the "religious issue" in American campaigns.

"I am not trying," he said, "to be the first Catholic President, as some have written. I happen to believe I can serve my nation as President — and I also happen to have been born a Catholic. Nor am I appealing, as is too often claimed, to a so-called Catholic vote, even if such a vote exists — which I doubt — I want to make one thing clear again: I want no votes solely on account of my religion . . . nor have I ever suggested that the Democratic Party is required to nominate me or face a Catholic revolt in November."

Mr. Kennedy criticized the press for giving so much space to the "religious issue" in connection with the Wisconsin primaries, and for failing to report comprehensively what he said on the farm question, disarmament, taxes, inflation, defense, foreign policy and kindred subjects of political debate. He complained that in West Virginia people who hadn't thought about the "religious issue" now were reading extensive articles about it. He deplored the emphasis given the question, though he absolved the press of any blame in creating the issue. He said:

"My religious affiliation is a fact — religious intolerance is a fact. And the proper role of the press is to report all facts that are a matter of public interest . . ."

"Is the religious issue a legitimate issue in this campaign? There is only one legitimate question underlying all the rest:

"Would you, as President of the United States, be responsive in any way to ecclesiastical pressures or obligations of any kind that might in any fashion influence or interfere with your conduct of that office in the national interest?" I have answered that question many times. My answer was — and is — 'No.'"

"Once that question is answered, there is no legitimate issue of my religion. But there are, I think, legitimate questions of public policy — of concern to religious groups which no one should feel bigoted about raising, and which I do not object to answering. But I do object to being the only candidate required to answer those questions."

"Federal assistance to parochial schools, for example, is a very legitimate issue actually before the Congress. I am opposed to it. I believe it is clearly unconstitutional. I voted against it on the Senate floor this year, when offered by Senator Morse. But, interesting enough, I was the only announced candidate in the Senate who did so. Nevertheless I have not yet charged my opponents with taking orders from Rome."

"An ambassador to the Vatican could conceivably become a real issue again. I am opposed to it, and said so long ago. But even though it was last proposed by a Baptist President, I know of no other candidate who has been even asked about this matter."

The last sentence was doubtless a slip. For in the same speech later on Mr. Kennedy said he didn't want to be known as a "Catholic candidate for President." He said: "I do not speak for the Catholic Church on issues of public policy — and no one in that church speaks for me." It would have been better, therefore, if he had referred to Mr. Truman as "a President who happened to be a Baptist."

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathart

CONGRESSIONAL WIVES — Congress is getting ready to vote their wives a gift of $400,000 — not as individuals, but as a group. The gift is a plot of land along Washington's embassy row, for use as a site for the Congressional Club.

The club is an organization of the wives of Senate and House members. While the women deny they are bringing pressure to bear on their husbands, it was learned that every member of Congress has received a letter from the club asking them to support the legislation.

If approved, the site will be used to build a $350,000 clubhouse for the ladies. There has been no discussion as to where that money will come from, but it is doubtful that it will be a government appropriation.

The land is owned by the District of Columbia and administered by the National Capital Parks commission. Under the legislation, the ladies would get a free, 99-year lease on the four-acre property across from the British Embassy on Massachusetts Ave.

The Congressman who introduced the bill, Rep. Wayne Aspinall, Colorado Democrat, explains it this way: "When the women come here with their husbands they have to leave the activities of their home towns. They're entitled to a place for some social life for themselves and their families."

Does Exercise Keep The Heart Healthy?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

How important is physical activity in preventing heart disease? Exercise is only one facet of the problem but it may be more important than we realize. Recently I saw the statistical results of an extensive British survey by Dr. J. N. Morris of London.

Since 1949, Dr. Morris has been comparing the incidence of coronary heart disease in those who do sedentary work with that among persons who do heavier work. He started on London busmen and found that the drivers were more likely to die suddenly from heart disease than were the conductors who collected the tickets on double decked vehicles.

These two groups made excellent contrasts because they were in the same economic and social class, ate approximately the same food, and lived and behaved in the same way. The only difference was that conductors were more active physically than their colleagues, who sat all day in the driver's seat. Three to four times more sudden deaths occurred in the latter group.

The same situation existed among government men who had sedentary jobs such as office clerks, minor officials, and switchboard operators. They had many more coronaries than British postmen who walk or use bicycles two-thirds of the time.

British death certificates showed also that coronary heart disease was commonest in light workers. The hearts of 3,800 men and women who died of causes other than cardiac disease revealed that occupation had nothing to do with the amount of hardening of the coronary arteries. But sedentary workers showed more severe narrowing of these vessels and scarring of the heart muscle from previous heart attacks than the people who did heavier work.

Dr. Morris investigated the occupations with the highest mortality from coronary thrombosis. The majority were light jobs in which stress was marked. Radio and telegraph operators were highest on the list, followed by priests and monks, dock and harbor officials, chemists, physicians, commercial brokers, Anglican clergymen, and musicians. Occupations comparable to executives here were low on the list. Bureaucrats were far below the average for all men.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Before the 1959 World Series got under way, a radio announcer reported the cheapest bleacher seat would set back the purchaser "four clams." One man promptly forwarded the radio station an envelope containing four clams. They gave him a ticket.

A gentleman of leisure on a bench in Central Park observed, "New York weather is getting to be too much for me. Eighty degrees one day, thirty-one the next, warm sun, then a hailstorm — why, confound it, a man doesn't know what to hock in times like these!"

Jackie Gleason says the world's most effective diet consists of exactly four words: "No more, thank you."

There's a new ladies hairdressing salon at Pacific Palisades on the ocean front in California. It's called The Beach Comber.

"Children," observes the "Catholic Digest," "often will be mean if not heard."

Ike's Charm Won't Dent DeGaulle's Firm Stand On Atom Tests, Berlin

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Here are highlights and sidelights on the de Gaulle - Eisenhower conference: Ike believes the talks will do more to restore Franco-American friendships than any diplomatic conference in 10 years. He is talking to de Gaulle as general-to-general, the kind of talk military men understand. . . . Despite Ike's charm, it's considered doubtful he can persuade de Gaulle to give up French A-bomb testing. Nor is de Gaulle likely to budge on Berlin. . . . De Gaulle himself reports that Premier Khrushchev is absolutely unbudgeable regarding Berlin, won't be bought off with any disarmament concessions by the USA. De Gaulle found he couldn't even dent Khrushchev regarding Berlin during their recent Paris parley. He might just as well have talked to a Paris lamp-post. De Gaulle is privately pessimistic regarding the summit conference at which he will play host in Paris May 16.

De Gaulle and Lincoln—Budget balancers at the White House are getting razed over the extra expense of getting a king-sized bed for de Gaulle. They say he could have used the big Lincoln double bed in the White House. . . . The French President who is six feet four inches tall sent word in advance that he would appreciate a bed in which his feet didn't hang out over the end. De Gaulle didn't say so, but he has insomnia, has enough trouble sleeping without cold, uncovered feet. So instead of putting the President of France in the huge Lincoln bed, they ordered an extra long bed installed in the Blair House across the street. Distinguished guests used to stay in the White House proper, now are put up in the Blair House. . . . Then at the last minute, another twin bed was ordered for Madame de Gaulle.

She isn't tall, but it was decided she should have a matching bed. What will happen to the beds when normal-sized guests are entertained at Blair House hasn't been decided. . . . When Harry Truman became President, his 90-year-old mother, an unreconstructed rebel, told her son: "I'll come and see you in Washington, but I won't sleep in Abraham Lincoln's bed."

Herter Moves First

One inside reason Secretary of State Herter cracked down so hard on President Syngman Rhee was because he knew the United Nations was about to do so.

Herter knew that the UN commission for Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea was already drafting a report bitterly critical of the manner in which Rhee's political opponents had been beaten, kidnapped, and murdered.

Faced with this impending report, Secretary Herter took the edge off it by giving Rhee one of the sharpest diplomatic spankings in years. Actually the State Department has tried to crack down on Rhee many times. Former Ambassador William Lacey got stomach ulcers trying to make Rhee reform. Ambassador John Muccio also did his best. But never has the State Department exercised the only power that will make Rhee change—a threat to withdraw U.S. military support.

Trouble in Korea gives Eisenhower a perfect out for changing his plans and visiting the friendly Philippines instead. Announcement that Ike would visit Japan, an ex-enemy, and troublesome Korea, has caused consternation in Manila.

There Claro Recto, head of the opposition Citizens Party, immediately made statements telling friendly President Carlos Garcia that friendship for the USA doesn't pay.

"You are being taken for granted," Recto said.

Announcement that Ike would not go to the Philippines came just after President Garcia had stuck his neck out by offering missile bases to the United States. "As a result," say his enemies, "you are being ignored. It's much better to warm up to the Communists. Then you'll get more from Uncle Sam."

Ike's Ghost Writer

Miss Kay Halle, the engaging Washington hostess, a member of the Halle Department Store family of Cleveland, was entertaining.

"Have you read Emmet Hughes' fascinating new book?" she asked, referring to the critical study of Ike's foreign policies, written by his former ghost writer, long an editor of Time, Life, and Fortune.

Clayton Fritchey, former aide to President Truman, said he had.

"What Hughes has written is exactly what Adlai Stevenson and Dean Acheson said in 1956, when Hughes was paid by Harry Luce to write campaign speeches for Eisenhower blasting both Stevenson and Acheson," said Fritchey.

"Now Hughes comes along with a severe castigation of the same policies he helped to formulate for Ike," continued Fritchey, "and he isn't even man enough to admit that he made a mistake. Remember it was Hughes who ghosted Ike's famous speech, 'I will go to Korea.' It led to our virtual surrender in Korea and the troubles we face there now."

"Oh, is Hughes really writing for Harry Luce?" asked another guest.

"Certainly. Luce doesn't care what a man thinks privately or writes on the side," said Fritchey, "just so long as he, Luce, controls his output for Time, Life, and Fortune. He hires the most brilliant writers he can find, and pays them well — regardless of political views."

"After all, he even hired Whitaker Chambers, a known Communist, and paid him $35,000 a year as senior editor."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Few men who attain the high office of President of the United States are equipped for it. Each has his conception of the duties and prerogatives that go with the title, and some Presidents are more concerned with prerogatives than duties.

Calvin Coolidge saw it in negation — an opportunity to stop things from being done rather than to initiate new ideas. Harry Truman saw it as history before it was current events. George Washington saw it in the eyes of a master builder; Lincoln brought love to the job; F. D. Roosevelt wanted to be the father-image; Monroe expected to be forced to make decisions.

Of them all, Dwight D. Eisenhower was the only student President. He arrived at the White House willing to study. One afternoon he sat in his big oval office with Jim Hagerty Jr. and me. He looked pink and bald and frowningly sincere, and we talked about work. The President wanted to know something about the research for a book I had written called "The Day Christ Died."

He asked if I had been to the Holy Land as part of the work, and I said I had. He had been there too and he had pitted all his knowledge of the Bible against what his eyes reflected in Jerusalem and Gethsemane and Calvary, and he said that it must have been a lot of work to put the book together.

His job, I said, was what I would call real work. He grinned and ran his fingers along the edge of the gleaming desk. He said he took the Presidency seriously, and he spent long night hours studying the job. For example, there were fifty-four departments and agencies — big ones, most of them — responsible solely to the President.

This was a shock to me because I had assumed that the work of government in the United States was divided, roughly, between three functioning powers: Congress, which initiates and passes laws and controls the public purse; the President, who endorses the laws and executes them; the Supreme Court, which stands aloof from the other two and stops them from abridging the rights of the people under the Constitution.

The President is chief of all armed forces; head of the Cabinet and its many departments; and boss of 54 other departments including, for example, the Atomic Energy Commission. I must have showed shock, because the President said that, not only did he study all of these duties but, in addition, had an economist come in three mornings a week to teach him the fundamentals of a tricky subject.

Besides all this, he had to read the important morning mail, summon Ann Whitman in for dictation, greet ambassadors, princes and presidents, be a host at state dinners, make grave decisions at cabinet meetings, have conferences with his score of personal assistants, and try to find time in the evening to dine in the upstairs corridor with Mrs. Eisenhower and her mother.

The work has wrecked the health of most Presidents, with the exception — in modern times — of Hoover and Truman. Few of them live very long after leaving office. The ideal man for President would be one with a mountainous mind, unlimited energy, no nervous system and no heart.

We talked for forty minutes, and I realized that Mr. Eisenhower had mastered the trick of being able to switch his concentration on and off at will. He could talk books with me and be completely immersed in the subject and, as I left his office with Mr. Hagerty, the President could summon a man from the State Department and go into deep detail about what he wants to do in the matter of a Summit Conference.

I was standing in the corridor near the White House swimming pool in the late afternoon when the President walked out through the French doors behind his office with a couple of golf balls and a club. His step had a lot of spring to it. His toes were slightly pigeoned, like those of most athletes.

He squinted in the sun, dropped a ball, and stared at the little green and the flag on it. Then he took his shot. The ball lofted lazily and came down, bouncing twice, and rolling to within two feet of the flag. I shook my head in remorse, because I used to think he played too much golf and didn't play enough President.

He is the only one I know in American history who was a student President.

Wise Sparkles As Tigers Win Fifth In Row

Smacks Two Home Runs; Lou Berberet Has 4-Run Blast

By GARY CATES
United Press International

DETROIT (UPI)—The explosive Detroit Tigers ripped into veteran Early Wynn for six runs in the first inning Sunday and coasted to a 12-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox, sweeping a three-game series from the American League defending champions.

It was the fifth win in a row for the unbeaten Tigers who have jumped off to a fast lead in the 1960 pennant race.

Two part-time players, Casey Wise and Lou Berberet, were the heroes of Sunday triumph.

Wise, filling in for second baseman Frank Bolling, socked two home runs, a triple and a single in five trips to the plate to drive in five runs.

Berberet, the husky catcher who broke up a tense battle with the Sox two days ago by singling home the winning run in the ninth, delivered a grand slam home run to spark the first-inning uprising.

Paul Foytack went the distance for the Tigers, picking up his first win of the season.

It was the second shelling in as many starts for Wynn who helped pitch the White Sox to the pennant last year with a 22-10 record. He was knocked out of the box by Kansas City in the opening game of the season.

The Tigers collected 11 hits, including five extra-base blows, off five Chicago pitchers.

Detroit's sluggers have now belted 11 home runs in their last four games.

Calhoun To Test Hank At 'Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Rory Calhoun, who specializes in getting beaten at the Cow Palace, returns there Monday night to take on confident Henry Hank of Detroit in a 10-round, non-televized middleweight bout.

Hank, who disposed of Sixto Rodriguez in seven rounds last Feb. 17, concedes that he has the power to stop a man with either hand.

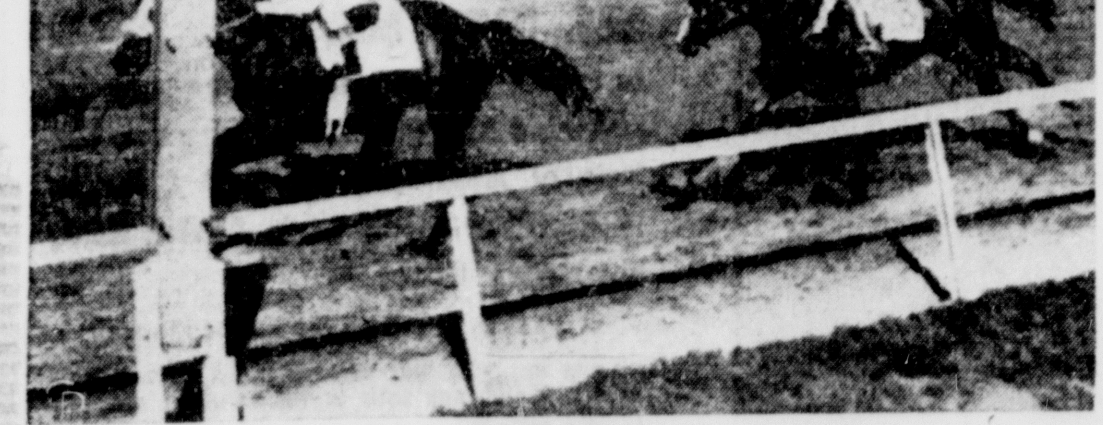

It will mark the fourth appearance at the Bovine Plaza for Calhoun, a resident of New York City, who figures that the money is worth the jinx.

In previous outings there he has been flattened by Spider Webb, outpointed by Bobo Olson then dropped a controversial decision to Webb in a rematch last Feb. 26.

Cubs Ring Up Seven In 8th To Nip Giants

Loes Is Loser In 9-4 Contest

By GENE BLUDEAU
United Press International

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Cubs exploded for seven runs after two outs in the eighth inning Sunday to beat San Francisco Giants, 9-4, and break a five game losing streak.

The Cubs, trailing 4-2, sent 13 batters to the plate against loser Billy Loes and two other relievers in the big inning. It was touched off by rookie Bob Will, a Chicago high school product making his home run of the year—a drive third try with the Cubs, who deep over the center field wall.

The Indians added another marker in the sixth inning off reliever Johnny Kucks on walks to Russ Nixon and Bell and a single into center field for two more runs and Richie Ashburn walked to bring on reliever Stu Miller. Miller faced only two batters and was nicked for one run and two hits including Ernie Banks' run scoring single and Frank Thomas' run scoring double.

The loss went to Loes who came on in the seventh after starter Billy O'Dell had held the Cubs to two runs on six scattered hits. Loes loaded the bases on George Altman's single and walks to Walt Moryn and Sam Taylor. Altman, pinch runner Sam Drake and Taylor all scored on Will's single.

The Cubs got their first run on a bases loaded balk charged to O'Dell and their second in the seventh inning on Earl Averill's pinch homer.

The Giants jumped to an early lead on Willy Mays' first inning home run, two runs in the second on Eddie Bressoud's run scoring triple. And a throwing error by catcher Del Rice allowed Bressoud to score.

The Giants scored their last run in the fourth inning on a walk and singles by Willie Kirkland and Bob Schmidt. The victory went to Don Elston, who came on in the eighth inning for the Cubs.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gus Mauch, veteran trainer of the New York Yankees, was resting comfortably at Lenox Hill Hospital Sunday after suffering what was described as "a mild heart attack."

Mauch will be out of action indefinitely and his place will be taken by Joe Soares, former trainer for Richmond of the International League and a member of the Yankee organization for the past nine years.

The Yankees also announced that outfielder Roger Maris would be sidelined for one or two days due to a severe bruise of his left shin. X-rays were taken Saturday and revealed no fractures.

LOCKE IS SHOOTING IN LOW 70'S AGAIN

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—Golfer Bobby Locke, 42, seriously injured two months ago when his car was struck by a train at a crossing, is shooting in the low 70's again and confident he'll soon be as good as new.

"My left eye still is closed but it is coming around and can be opened with an effort now," Locke said Sunday. "It's just a matter of time for the muscles to heal and get workable again, then I should be as good as ever."

Finsterwald's 270 Breaks Picard's 19-Year-Old Mark

Dow Captures New Orleans Open, Cops $3,500 Top Prize

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Dead Eye Dow Finsterwald shaved the edge off his conservative reputation for a final round 69 to win the $27,000 Greater New Orleans Open Golf Tournament Sunday.

His 2-under par performance gave him a 72-hole total of 69-66-69-270, a showing that lopped six strokes off the tournament record set by Henry Picard in 1941. Win Worth $3,500

The victory was worth $3,500 to the 30-year-old Tequesta, Florida veteran and pushed his earnings for the year past the $25,000 mark. He now trails only Masters champion Arnold Palmer in earnings on the 1960 tour.

Big Al Bessellink of Grossinger, N.Y., finished with a 2-under par 70, and a tournament total of 276 to take second place.

Former PGA champion Bob Rosburg of Overland Park, Kansas, tied young Houston LaClair of Birmingham, Ala., Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., and Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La. all had 277.

Capped January Event
The triumph was the first for Finsterwald since he finished on top in the Los Angeles Open in January.

His card Sunday showed birdies on the second, 11th and 16th holes, but his biggest boost came when he dropped a 10-foot eagle putt on the 45-par 5 sixth hole. He was in trouble only twice when he took bogeys on the fifth hole and again on the 13th. He had only three bogeys through the 72 holes.

Wood Winner Not In Derby

Francis S., However, Is Preakness Entry

By United Press International

The Wood Memorial winner, for the second straight year, won't show up at Churchill Downs for the Kentucky Derby.

Last year, Manassa Mauler, named after Jack Dempsey, won the Wood and returned $127,500, but wasn't eligible for the Derby. Again Saturday, a non-Derby nominee, Harbor View Farm's Francis S., streaked home the winner in the $95,100 Wood.

Of the 14 horses entered in the Wood, nine had been nominated for the Derby. But only Never Give In had definitely been decided upon for the classic. Mrs. Elizabeth Arden Graham, owner of the three-year-old chestnut colt by Never Say Die, announced Sunday that the thoroughbred would be shipped by plane to Churchill Downs on Monday and would have at least one race before the Derby.

Although Francis S. will miss out on the Derby, he is eligible for the Preakness.

Baseball Records

Cornerstone Opened
The original cornerstone, set on Jan. 5, 1912, was broken open with a sledge hammer. Inside a copper container was a picture of Charley Ebbets, president of the Dodgers when the park was built; letters from baseball greats congratulating the team on its new park; a copy of Adm. Peary's message to America that he had reached the North Pole, a copy of the New York morning Post of Jan. 5, 1912, five 1912 pennies and one 1811 penny, now worth about $7.50 in exchange value.

Burleson Thinks He Can Better 3:58.6

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—"I think I can go considerably faster," asserted Dwyrl Burleson looking back on his 3:58.6 mile—the fastest ever run by an American.

The slender 6-foot-1, 19-year-old sophomore was going away over Ernie Cunliffe, Stanford University senior, in a dual meet here Saturday.

"Cunliffe did the work," Burleson said. "It was relatively easy for me to kick by him in the stretch."

Cunliffe was ahead most of the way Burleson was right on his heels, never more than 7 yards behind.

Then with 3 and 4/5 laps behind them, Burleson demonstrated his great driving finish.

Infractions On Agenda Of NCAA

Tar Heels May Be Hauled On Carpet

By GARY CATES

ATLANTA (UPI)—The council of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. indicated Sunday that infractions by member colleges will be on the agenda of its regular spring meeting here by announcing the expected arrival of the chairman of the infractions committee.

The NCAA's 1-man executive committee met here Sunday and at the close of a day-long, closed-door session NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers announced that the 1961 national collegiate ice hockey playoffs will be held at the University of Denver at Denver, Col., March 16-18 and that the 1961 wrestling tournament will be held at Oregon State College, Corvallis, Ore., March 23-25.

Byers said the infractions chairman, Dean George H. Young of the University of Wisconsin Law School, is expected to appear before the council Monday afternoon.

There have been reports that the University of North Carolina may be hauled on the council carpet for alleged recruiting violations and it was indicated that other schools may be cited.

The council opens its three-day spring meeting here Monday morning. There are numerous other items on the council agenda but the main item of interest will be the 18-member governing body which has the authority to take disciplinary action between annual conventions of the NCAA.

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (UPI)—Bill Maphis of Romney, one of the most sought after basketball players in the state, Sunday night announced that he would enter West Virginia University in September.

The 6-4 Maphis was a member of Romney's Class A championship team. He made the announcement at the Morgantown Press Club banquet.

Sets World Mark

LANGHORNE, Pa. (AP)—Don Branson of Urbana, Ill., piloted his racer to a world record for sprint cars Sunday over the mile dirt track at the Langhorne Speedway.

He averaged 110.223 mph for the qualifying mile run, erasing 109.375 record set by Johnny Thomson of Boyertown, Pa., in 1955.

Branson, however, could manage no better than second place in the first of the two 50-lap feature races. He came in fifth in the second race.

Keyser Guard Joins Fight Against Cancer

Practice Alert Held Crusade

KEYSER — The local National Guard unit turned out in full strength a recent evening to execute "Operation Cancer Alert." The operation was part of a statewide test of the Guard's alert and mobilization plan, and to draw attention to the nation's dread killer, cancer.

For the purpose of the alert, the unit's mobilization plan was followed. The city was divided into five zones and five teams of guardsmen made a house-to-house canvass. At each house the men presented a pamphlet describing the seven danger signals of cancer, and informed the householder that a collection would be made at a later date under the direction of the local Cancer committee. No money was solicited by the guardsmen. Mrs. Raymond Shanks, chairman of the local committee, will oversee the actual collection of the money and will be assisted by Nancy Hanks Post Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Captain William L. Gardner, battalion motor officer, acted as official observer for the local battery and was favorably impressed by the work done by Battery C. Commenting on the alert, Captain H. E. Will, battery commander, expressed his thanks to the citizens of Keyser for the hospitality and cooperation extended members of the battery. He termed the alert and mobilization a complete success.

Rising Sun KP Lodge Hosts Grand Officers

LONACONING — Rising Sun Lodge No. 86, Knights of Pythias, Lonaconing, was host lodge for a District No. 1 rally in the Pythian hall when the rank of Knight was conferred upon eight esquires by the degree team from Garrett Lodge 113, of Oakland.

In memory of Nelson Russler, past grand chancellor of Maryland, Julius Schindler gave an eulogy of Mr. Russler's life in the Knights of Pythias.

Lodges represented at the rally included Garrett Lodge No. 113, Oakland; Cumberland Lodge No. 60, Anchor Lodge No. 111, Midland; Olive Branch Lodge No. 25, Keyser, W. Va.; Lafayette Lodge, Piedmont, W. Va.; Queen City Lodge No. 136, Cumberland; Brunswick Lodge, Brunswick, Md.; and Rising Sun Lodge No. 86 of Lonaconing.

The Grand Chancellor of Maryland Otto B. Cheesman made his official visit accompanied by members of his official staff, Grand Secretary Billy Waters, Grand Outer Guard Ira Whittington, District Deputy Grand Chancellor George Coddington, Grand Trustees John Schramm, Tommy Taylor and Frank Davis.

Chancellor Commander Sam Llewellyn gave the welcome to the grand lodge officers. He outlined the prospects of Frostburg Lodge being reactivated before June when his term of office expires.

Motoring Star Temple No. 1, Pythian Sisters, prepared and served refreshments after the meeting.

Midland Plans Clean-Up Week

MIDLAND — Mayor Lionel D. Baker has announced that a clean-up campaign will be held here during the week of April 25-30 inclusive, and all residents and householders are urged to cooperate.

Streets will be washed and hosed-down by members of the Midland Volunteer Fire Company. All residents are urged to clean out attics, basements, yards and buildings and place all trash on curbs by 8 a. m. Friday, April 29 and Saturday, April 30 when a general pickup is scheduled.

Mayor Baker said a cooperative community clean-up campaign is important to the health and safety of the community, as removal of trash, junk and debris reduces the existence of fire hazards and the danger of infection and disease.

He also suggests that property owners take this time of the year to do a general fix-up, clean-up and paint-up of their homes, lawns and gardens.

Frostburg Seaman Begins Long Cruise

FROSTBURG—Leslie L. Davis, fire control technician seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Davis of 62 Spring Street, departed Norfolk, Va., aboard the guided missile carrier USS Canbera for a nine-month operational and good-will cruise around the world.

The 13,000 ton man-of-war is enroute to San Diego, Calif., via Cuba and Panama. It is the first guided missile cruiser to operate in the Pacific.

The Canbera and her crew are scheduled to return to Norfolk by next Thanksgiving.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: I'm tortured with indecision. I don't know whether or not to marry the guy. I'm going to give you the straight story—then wait for the green or the red light.

I'm 23. Glen is 30. We've gone together a year. He was married briefly but never talks about the bust-up. I don't know what happened. He's terrifically good-looking and well-built. He has a fast line of patter and a quick mind. At present he's a salesman—his third job since I've known him.

He's always short of money. I've made his car payments for the past four months. If he lost his car he couldn't work.

Glen is terribly jealous of me. If another fellow is even civil he gets mad. When we aren't together he phones four or five times during the evening. He claims he's lonesome. I think he's checking.

Now—on the positive side: Ann, I've been sitting here staring at this paper for fully five minutes and I can't think of ONE thing to say. THAT DID IT! You don't need to answer this letter. I'm seeing things clearly for the first time. You've helped more than you know. Thanks a million.

—MEG

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Will you please tell me what to do about a 16-year-old boy who is in the 10th grade, makes excellent grades, participates in basketball, football, track and is popular, yet he sucks his thumb while reading and sleeps with his thumb in his mouth every night.

He has sucked his thumb since he was an infant. We thought he'd outgrow it. We've tried to shame him out of it by mentioning it in front of his friends but even that doesn't work. Please tell us what this means and how we can break him of this childish habit.

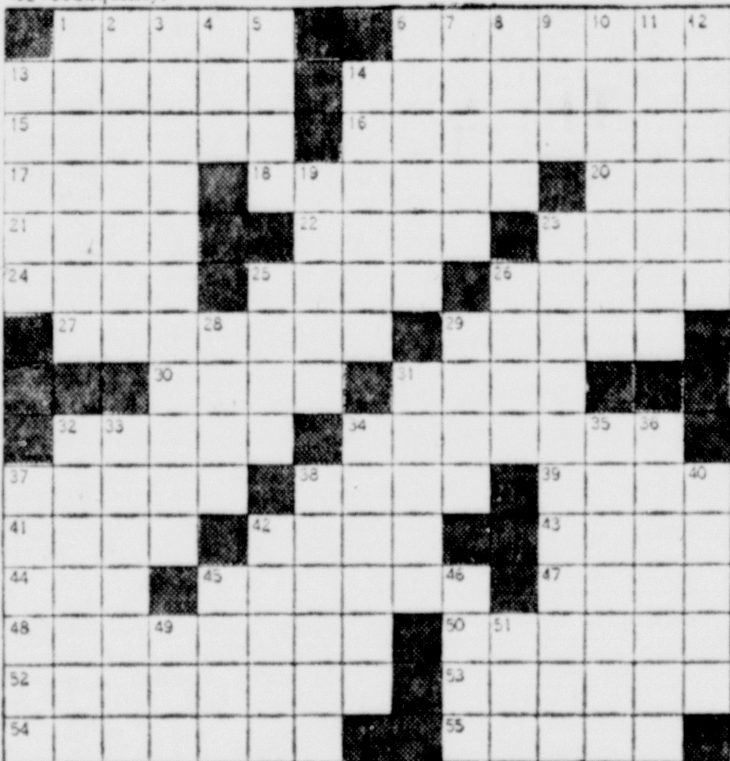

—M. P. O.

DEAR M. P. O.: Thumb-sucking is a symptom of emotional insecurity and is usually outgrown by the time a child goes to school.

Shaming, scolding, threatening and punishment won't break the habit. In fact, these techniques often work in reverse because

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠ J 10 7 4 ♥ A Q J 9 2 ♦ K 9 4 ♣ A 6
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A—Considering the important value of the singleton club, your hand is the equivalent of an opening bid. Since partner has opened the bidding and jumped to 3 ♠, you should not raise the bid. A slam should be contemplated. The slam suggestion should be made by a raise of the above game to five spades.
Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠ 6 ♥ A Q J 7 ♦ 5 3 ♣ A K 10 9 6 2
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♦ Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A—One heart. The opportunity to show the four-card major at this low range should be seized in preference to rebidding the six-card minor. The impression that a six-card suit must be raised is usually before a four-card suit is a hangover from the gay '90s.
Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠ K J 9 7 6 5 ♥ Q 6 3 ♦ A Q J 4
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A—Two spades. This does not contradict the principle expounded in the previous answer: a six-card major should be given distinct preference over a four-card minor. With one more club or one less spade, your answer would have been two clubs.
Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠ 7 4 ♥ K 10 9 6 ♦ J 10 5 ♣ K J 9 3
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
2 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A—Our vote is in favor of a bid of three hearts. It is a close case and no severe criticism should attend a pass. Our preference is to bid, because while it is true that on a certain number of hands we might be in jeopardy at three hearts nevertheless it is worth the risk, because of the occasional game that will be unearthed in this manner. Remember, too, that partner need not go on, inasmuch as you have previously notified him that you haven't much strength.
Q. 5—You are South, both sides vulnerable and you hold:
♠ K 10 9 8 7 5 3 ♦ 6 2 ♣ A J 5 3
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♥ 1 ♥ Pass 2 ♥ Pass
3 ♥ 4 ♥ 5 ♥ Double
Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A—Pass. This may appear to be a surprise, particularly that you should pass this type of hand, but actually I feel that it is a sign of good business sense. You can hardly hope for game. Partner obviously has no aspirations. He simply doesn't want to let the opponents run off with a bargain. If it were his purpose to go all in, he would have acted immediately over the opening bid of one heart, at which point it would have been a simple matter for him to have bid one spade.

Secretaries Week Opens
Mayor J. Edwin Keech expresses his wishes for success of National Secretaries Week, which opened yesterday, to a planning committee of Algonquin Chapter headed by Miss Ellen Newnam, shown shaking hands with the mayor. Other members of the committee are (from left) Miss Jean Santasano, Miss Geraldine Collins, Miss Martha Rogan, chairman; Mrs. Vivian Slider and Miss Angela Long. The local chapter started its observance by attending services at Emmanuel Episcopal Church, followed by a tea at the home of Mrs. Joy Pauppe. The chapter's "Secretary of the Year" will be announced at a dinner Wednesday at Cumberland Country Club, and new members will be initiated at the dinner.

Two Area Men Enlist In Army
Two men were accepted at the local Army recruiting station last week for enlistment in the Regular Army, according to M Sgt. Virgil Smith.
Bernard Allen Mazer, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Mazer of RFD 1, Hyndman, Pa., a graduate of Hyndman High School, enlisted for three years and selected the Army Airborne. After eight weeks of basic and eight weeks of advanced training, he will attend the Paratrooper jump school at Fort Bragg, N.C.
James Edward Eisentrout, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Eisentrout, Ridgeley, W. Va., enlisted for three years and selected assignment in the Armored Service.

Gamble To Direct Short Course Music
Dr. Frank E. Gamble, supervisor of music education in the Allegany County public schools, will serve as music director of the 34th annual Rural Women's Short Course at the University of Maryland from June 20 to 25.
Dr. Gamble will conduct music classes at the week-long course at College Park. He also will serve as song leader during group singing and will lead the hymns during the devotionals.
Allegany County traditionally is one of the best represented counties at this program of inspiration, education and recreation.

Three More Permits Issued For Dwellings
Three more building permits for dwellings which the builders estimate will cost a total of about $23,000 to build have been issued by the Allegany County assessing department.
Two of the houses will be built in Election District 16 in the North Branch area, and the other one in District 6 at Bowling Green.
James E. Kaiser obtained a permit to build a 30 by 38-foot frame dwelling with carport on Messick Road in District 16. The estimated cost is $7,000. Ronald D. Brokloff was issued a permit to build a 40 by 25-foot brick veneer dwelling for $8,000 on Buchanan Avenue in Bowling Green. James R. Hager obtained a permit for a 38 by 40-foot frame house with cedar siding on the east side of Messick Road at its intersection with Williams Road in District 16.

Bruce Music Groups Plan School Concert
WESTERNPORT — Activities of the Instrumental Music Department of Bruce High School will be climaxed Tuesday with a concert at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium under the direction of William D. Simpson, instrumental music instructor at Bruce and Westernport and McCool elementary schools.
Nearly 300 pupils organized in to the following groups will be heard: Bruce High School Orchestra, junior high school band, the senior high school orchestra and a 100-piece grade school orchestra.
Practice sessions have been going on for weeks and the stage is set for the presentation.
"Intermezzo from L'Arlesienne Suite 2" and excerpts from "Rostam and Shazdam" will be offered by the high school orchestra.
The grade school orchestra will play "Bright Star March," "Autumn Breeze" and "Homeward Bound."
The junior high band will present "Activity March," "Zenith Overture" and "Mutual March." The grade school orchestra will also be heard in "Clover Leaf Waltz," "Crown of Gold Overture" and "Boots and Saddles."

KEYSER, W. Va.—Thomas S. Walsh, seaman, USN, son of Mrs. Nedra I. Walsh of 23 South Water Street, Keyser, took part in a huge amphibious landing exercise, March 22, on Formosa, a southern coast while serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Bon Homme Richard.
Purpose of the operation, which comprised over 18,000 Marines and 70 Navy ships, was to promote closer working relations between U. S. and Republic of China forces in practicing the conventional and vertical assault type amphibious landings.
"Blue Star" was one of the largest amphibious operations since D-Day in 1945.

years. He was elected first chief squire of Bishop James E. Walsh Circle 1222, Columbian Squires.
Boyer, who maintains a good average in his studies, placed second this year in the "I Speak For Democracy" contest. Musically inclined, he has been a member of the Glee Club four years, having been awarded a letter. He plays the accordion, Canberran which is on a nine-month operation and good-will cruise around the world. The Canberran left Norfolk, Va., March 3 and is scheduled to return by Thanksgiving.
In his junior and sophomore years he was a member of the cast of "No Time For Sergeants," and "Charley's Aunt." A sports fan, Bill won a letter during two years of varsity football and three years of varsity bowling.
For four years he participated in intramural bowling and basketball, and was Maryland state champion in free-style roller skating for two years. He holds the office of auditor in the Columbian Squires Circle.
Young Firlie, who played basketball in his freshman and sophomore years, got a starting position with the varsity team in his junior and senior years. As a freshman, he took top scholastic honors and was runner-up in the oratorical contest.
He also had acting experience with a role in "No Time For Sergeants." Upon graduation this June, he hopes to enter college to major in biology.
